Get The Facts on Your Execution Gap

The Perforex ExGAP Assessment gives you the facts of where your execution gap is, what it's costing you, and how much of it you can capture. It will redefine prevailing views about what is possible in your operations.

The ExGAP Assessment is the critical first step towards understanding your execution gap, and in two to three short weeks you can. Perforex will profile the difference between what your operation is currently doing versus what it could do by examining the operating discipline of your organization, the effectiveness of your management tools, and the processes that impact execution. Improvement opportunities existing in production, quality, value, recovery and other key success factors will be identified.

Time and time again, organizations having engaged Perforex for ExGAP Assessments talk to the quality, detail and value of the findings.
